The Features of Thanksgiving Day at Wesley Church.

REV. D. A. DENTON TALKS POLITICS

To the Methodists and Presbyterians of the South End—The Reasons he Assigns for the Recent Tidal Wave of Republicanism—A Thanksgiving Meal Served after.

In the Wesley M. E. church Thanksgiving services were held yesterday, as has been the custom for years between this congregation and that of the Third Presbyterian church, the services alternating each year in the two churches. This was the year for the sermon to be preached by the Presbyterian minister, but that church now being without a minister, the sermon was preached by Rev. D. A. Denton, of the Benwood M. E. church.

After speaking of the day as a national festival, he announced that his sermon would consist of the lesson that might be drawn from the result of the recent election, and took for his text Exodus, 32d chapter and part of the 8th verse: "They have turned aside quickly."

These were the words of God to Moses concerning the children of Israel during his absence from them for forty days on the mount to receive the law. They could follow God, while Moses was present to guide them; while the thunderings of Sinai were sounding in their ears, but when the face of their leader was gone, they forgot all and turned aside to the worship of idols. Applying this to our own country the speaker said in substance as follows:

We have lately been treated in this country to two great political surprises. Two years ago, when the country was never more prosperous, we were greatly surprised at the party in power being entirely deprived of power by a sweeping victory by the other party. Many reasons were given for it by both the victors and the vanquished. The victors, after trying for two years to carry out what they had proposed to do, have lately been defeated by an almost unprecedented majority. This is surprise No. 2. And now it is harder than ever to tell what the people want.

After noticing the reasons given by politicians, the speaker argued that it showed a great political unrest in our land. If what the politicians now say is the cause be true, then why the great change of two years ago? He thinks the politicians' reasons are merely superficial. They will not satisfy a cool, calculating, thoughtful mind. As causes for this great unrest in our country, which all must acknowledge exists, he gave the following reasons:

1. The great number of political parties, and new ones are springing up every day.
2. The statements of misgiving made by the prominent statesmen and leading journals of the country.

Here he referred to interviews with ex-Speaker Reed, Elkins and others and the editorials of such journals as the Pittsburgh and New York Advocates, of his own church and other prominent periodicals. From all of these the thought is gleaned that the great victory may be the greatest peril of the party if not of the country.

3. The spread of socialism. Capitalists are looked on as robbers, a division of property is demanded, which is socialism pure and simple.

4. A disregard of the demands of the people by those in power, especially by the laboring classes as to hours of labor, wages, etc. Petitions from them have either been entirely ignored, or not complied with if noticed.

5. The absolute refusal of the two great parties to take a decided stand against the saloon element.

He spoke eloquently of the manner in which a petition of the temperance people, praying for this, was treated by one of the parties.

6. The money question has had much to do in causing this unrest. It is not so much the want as the waste of money that has caused it. The greatest waste is in the money spent for drink.

7. The unscrupulousness of the political conscience. In this connection he spoke of the McKane and Breckinridge cases and the corruption in New York City.

He closed as follows: If all these things be true, is there not cause for alarm? He would answer Yes and No. If we go on giving up to the saloon element and to all that is immoral, then there is danger. But if we do our duty, are governed by principle, the danger can be overcome. We have been sleeping as a people, and we must wake up. We have allowed the Rule of Gold, instead of the Golden Rule, to govern us. It was principle that made this country, and this must save it. There should be more religion in our politics. There is enough Bible religion in the country to preserve it if properly utilized. We must do right in politics as in everything else. Then will we prosper as a nation.

At the close of the service a Thanksgiving dinner was served in the basement of the church by the young ladies and gentlemen of the fourth department of the Epworth League. Nearly the entire congregation and many others partook of it. Supper was also served for those who could not attend at the dinner hour. A handsome sum was realized for the benefit of the church.

Stylish Wedding at Moundsville.

A very pretty wedding took place last evening in Moundsville at 5 o'clock. The happy principals were Miss Anna L. Curtis, daughter of Rev. J. F. Curtis, and Dr. J. D. Schmeid, a promising young physician of Moundsville. The ceremony was performed by the bride's father, assisted by Rev. S. H. Doyle, pastor of the Presbyterian church, of Moundsville. The home of the bride, where the ceremony was performed, was profusely decorated with flowers.

The attendants were Misses Mazy Oldham, of New Matamoras, Irene Curtis, of New Martinsville, Mary Bruce and Mary Curtis, sister of the bride, and Messrs. John T. Gallagher and Albert Snape, of Moundsville. After the marriage a wedding supper and reception took place, after which the couple took the 7:13 P. & O. train for Pittsburgh, from whence they will go and visit a number of eastern cities, after which they will return to Moundsville and make it their home. A number of out-of-town people were present.

Rankin-Heatherington.

The marriage of Mr. John T. Rankin to Miss Maude Heatherington by Rev. K. R. Swope, in Wheeling, on Thanksgiving eve, was a great surprise to their many friends at Belair yesterday. No one outside of the members of the two families knew of it until after it was all over, but the hearty congratulations of the young people were none the less because of it. The bride is the estimable daughter of W. Scott Heatherington, and the groom is book-keeper for the Delaplain Dry Goods Company, in this city.

German Theatre To-night.

The German Theatre Company of Cincinnati will open a two nights' engagement, with matinee, at the Opera House this evening. To-night's performance will be "King Krause," a musical farce comedy by Julius Keller; Saturday matinee "Der Herr Senator" and Saturday night "Der Probierstein." The full company, as it appears in Cincinnati, will be here and the Opera House should be filled to its utmost capacity, as it is very seldom that such a large and complete German theatrical organization visits the city.

If you want $500, $1,000, $2,000, or $5,000 on city real estate, first mortgage, call on Atkinson & Flick.
